Oja — How It Works

Campus marketplace for students • Trust you can see • Money held until you are satisfied

The Two Problems We Solve

On campus, two different issues get mixed together. Oja keeps them separate so you can see the truth clearly:

Delivery Trust	Will the seller actually give me what they promised?
Price Fairness	Am I paying a fair price, or being overcharged because I'm stuck on campus?

A seller can be completely honest and still charge too much. Showing both scores side-by-side protects you.

The Core Idea in One Sentence

You describe what you need → you compare real sellers on price, delivery trust and price fairness → you pay into escrow → you inspect the item first → only then do you release the money with a short code.

How It Works — From Start to Finish

1. Search or Request

Type or speak what you need. If nothing is listed, post a request with your budget. Sellers can send you offers.

2. Compare on the Truth Board

Every matching seller appears in one simple table: Price | Delivery Trust % | Price Fairness % | Pickup or Delivery. You choose how to sort. No paid placement, no hidden ranking.

3. Check the seller (optional)

See the two trust scores, verified reviews from real completed orders, and experience level.

4. Pay into Escrow

Money is held safely — not sent to the seller. You choose free campus pickup or (if the seller offers it) paid delivery to your room.

5. Inspect, then reveal the code

When the item arrives, check it carefully. Only when you are satisfied do you reveal a short code. The seller enters that code to receive the money. This protects you from "walk-away" and rushed handovers.

6. Leave two quick ratings

After the order: "Did you get exactly what was promised?" and "Was the price fair with no surprise extras?" These ratings feed the two trust scores for future buyers.

The Handover Code (why it matters)

The code stays hidden until you decide to show it. You inspect first. You reveal only when happy. The seller (or the person delivering) must enter the code to get paid. Both sides take an active step — this is stronger evidence than a single button tap and matches the cardless withdrawal pattern many Nigerians already trust.

Two Optional Extras (v1.5)

Optional Paid Delivery	Default is free pickup at fixed campus points. A seller can turn on delivery for a listing and set their own fee. You choose at checkout: free pickup or “Deliver to my room + fee”. Same escrow and same inspect-then-code process.
Request & Proposal	Can’t find what you need? Post a request (item or errand) with a maximum budget. Sellers reply with a price and short note. You compare the offers using the same Price / Delivery Trust / Price Fairness table and pick one. It then becomes a normal protected order.

What Oja Never Does

- Never mixes Delivery Trust and Price Fairness into one score.
- Never shows unverified reviews — every rating is tied to a real completed order.
- Never releases your money until you inspect and reveal the code (or a proper report is resolved).
- Never ranks sellers secretly or accepts paid placement.
- Never invents delivery times, guarantees, or “verified” badges that are not real.

Simple rule: You see the truth, you hold the money until you are happy, and every rating comes from a real transaction.
